HAPPINESS IS 4-H

By Frank H. Sweet
Extension Agent

Next week brings the Five County Fair in Farmville. The Fair is the one big opportunity that 4-H'ers have to exhibit items made or grown during the past year. For the benefit of those persons selecting vegetables, we've prepared a special article entitled "Selecting Fair Exhibits" which appears elsewhere in this week's Times-Virginian.

An abbreviated Fair schedule might include the following:

Monday: All crops, crafts, canned goods, clothing, livestock exhibits entered.

Tuesday: Judging of most exhibits; beef show at 7:00 P.M.

Wednesday: Baked goods and flowers for youth entered in morning; fashion revue in afternoon; hog show in afternoon; dairy show at night.

Thursday: Adult baked goods and flower show; "Miss Five County Fair Contest" in evening.

Friday: Talent Show in evening.

Saturday: All livestock exhibits should be removed by 8:00 P.M.

Soldiers Handbook From 1901

Mr. James L. Collins of 124 Morris Avenue, Appomattox, is shown holding a SOLDIERS HANDBOOK, U.S.A. (Revised) that was issued to his father, the late Eugene Collins of Boston, Mass. in 1901.

Pvt. Collins was stationed at Fort Strong.

The book, about the size of a Readers Digest Magazine, contained just about eveything a soldier needed to know in 1901.

Among the topics covered in the book were: General Regulations, Extra and Special Duty, Codes, First Aid, Conventional Signals for Telegraph, and Crises During Rebellion.

In the back of the book was a record of money spent for clothing during a three year period. The first year he spent $65.61; the second $31.75; and the third a total of $30.66 The total clothing expenditure amounted to $129.02 for a three year period.

In glancing through the records we see a dress shirt for $2.04, two undershirts for $1.46, 1 pair of leggings for .37, work trousers for $1.72, a pair of cotton drawers for .27 and six pairs of sox for .36.

It would be interesting to compare this handbook of 1901 to one used today; there'd be quite a few changes, no doubt!

David Hancock and Tommy Williams will represent Appomattox at the 4-H Business Management Workshop at Holiday Lake, September 28-30. This event helps young people learn about and appreciate the business world. Local Chambers of Commerce help provide scholarships of 4-H'ers to attend and participate in the workshop.

* * *

We have two 4-H Community Clubs in the Appomattox area that need volunteer leaders. If you wish to help, please give us a call at the Extension Office.

* * *

4-H Clubs will be electing officers this month. 4-H officers are very important to the groups success during the year. If you are elected as an officer, please try to do the best job you can. An officer training workshop will be scheduled for late September.

Congratulations to all 46 4-H'ers who participated in last weeks Fashion Revue. Winners were Nancy Carol Wooldridge in the Junior Division and Jane Guill in the Senior Division.

Senior division competitors in the fashion revue were Laurie McLean, Jane Guill (who placed 1st), Laura Walton (2nd) and Cheryl Walton. Not pictured are Lisa Moore (3rd) and Rhonda Nash.

4-H Fashion Coming at You

By Irene Ellis
Summer Extension Aide

4-H'ers who were in clothing classes in Appomattox this summer participated in the county fashion revue last Monday and Tuesday evenings at Appomattox County High School. The forty junior members and six senior members were judged and practiced for the fashion revue on Monday night. The following night they modeled for parents and friends and received their awards.

Teen leaders, Laurie Cowan, Jane Guill, Susan Parris, Karen Stevens and Cheryl Walton, wrote the script which Laurie Cowan, Allen Smith and David Caldwell narrated. Cheryl and Laura Walton provided music for the evening. Also on hand were Mike McCoy, who played jazz piano selections and James Beaty, Joanie Canada, Patricia Chandler and David Williams, who did a skit for entertainment.

Nancy Wooldridge was the top winner in the junior division. She modeled a reversible wrap around skirt, vest and blouse. Nancy will represent Appomattox in the Area Junior Contests next spring and received a sewing box, well stocked with supplies which was donated by Ben Franklin. The second place winner was Karen Stevens and she won a half scholarship to 4-H Camp next year, donated by the Women's Committee of the Farm Bureau. Placing third and winning a pair of sewing shears donated by Leggetts in Farmville was Martha Haley. Anne Hancock was fourth and she received a length of fabric from Sangil and an iron all from Schembers in Farmville. Dana Lee won fabric from Sangil and fifth place.

In the senior division Jane Guill, modeling a pantsuit and matching blouse, placed first. She will represent Appomattox in the East Central District Fashion Revue next spring and won a half scholarship to State 4-H Congress. It was donated by the Women's Committee of the Farm Bureau. The second place winner, Laura Walton received a gift certificate from the Clothesline. Lisa Moore, placing third, won fabric from Sangil.

Mrs. Cindy Thomas and Mrs. Madeline Thomas were the judges for the junior division. Mrs. Tawanna Lee and Mrs. Hope Ferguson judged the seniors.

The leaders who helped with the clothing classes were recognized and presented certificates. They were Mrs. Betty Bryan, Laurie Cowan, Bonnie Drinkard, Mrs. Fannie Farrar, Mrs. Rebecca Fox, Jane Guill, Mrs. Pinky Humbles, Mrs. Bertie Keys, Maria King, Mrs. Tawanna Lee, Mrs. Patty Myrick, Mrs. Gaye Stevens, Mrs. Donna Terry, Cheryl Walton, Laura Walton, Mrs. Mary Wooten. These people were an extremely important part of the program.

We extend a big thank you to everyone who helped make the clothing classes and fashion revue successful.

Telephone Solicitations May Be Illegal

The Office of Consumer Affairs of the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (VDACS) today issued a warning concerning an organization calling itself the "National Association For Special Needs Children" which has been soliciting contributions from citizens across the state allegedly for charitable purposes. Most of the calls have been reported in the metropolitan areas.

The organization has not registered with the Commissioner of VDACS as required by law. Contributors are cautioned that their gifts to such an organization may be used for other than charitable work.

Citizens are urged to get the facts before promising a donation as the result of telephone solicitations. Demand to know the name of the individual seeking the solicitations, who they are working for, the full official name of the charity and an indication as to exactly what percent of total donations is going to the charitable organization. Any legitimate charity will gladly supply you with any or all of this information.

It would also be wise to check with the State Office of Consumer Affairs (toll free number 1-800-552-9963) or your local charity licensing agency to see if the organization has complied with any registration requirements of the law.
